

Nostalgia, please have a seat Selecting Eighth Edition

Aaron Forsythe, Content Manager

Tuesday, September 17, 2002

- Aaron Forsythe, Content Manager Archive

Go to the "Selecting Eighth Edition" promo page here.

Rabid Wombat is one of those cards that is a little sillier than we normally like to print, but we understand that people have an attachment to it, and we're perfectly willing to put it into Eighth Edition. Similarly, Crusade was rotated out of the base set, partially due to power level concerns, but with white needing a kick-start, we could see it coming back.

The dust has settled, and it seems you all have other ideas. Nostalgia, please have a seat.

Yavimaya Enchantress and Glorious Anthem beat out their older siblings, and neither contest was particularly close. I'll leave the "whys" and "hows" to other speculative writers around the 'Net; I'm just here with the facts. (And the fact is, an 0/1 for is pretty awful when you think about it.) Nostalgia saved face by winning both art votes, with Tempest versions of Trained Armodon and Boil getting the nod.

Which card should be in Eighth Edition?

Yavimaya Enchantress	6534	60.2%
Rabid Wombat	4324	39.8%
Total	10858	100%

Which Trained Armodon art should be in Eighth Edition?

Tempest	7898	78.7%
Seventh Edition	2142	21.3%
Total	10040	100%

Which card should be in Eighth Edition?

Glorious Anthem	6402	65.8%
Crusade	3327	34.2%
Total	9729	100%

Which Boil art should be in Eighth Edition?

Tempest	6804	81.1%
Seventh Edition	1582	18.9%
Total	8386	100%

Stay tuned for the flavor text and basic land votes, coming up after we finish our Onslaught previews!

---

Comments and questions may be directed to editor@wizards.com.