Seventh Edition Set Sales Ending

Press Release
 Thursday, June 12, 2003

It's time for yet another phase of Magic Online to go into effect -- ending the sales of a digital set. We all knew it would happen eventually, and that time is less than two months from now.

On July 28, 2003 at 12 midnight PDT, the Seventh Edition set will no longer be available at the Magic Online Store. This also means that all Limited events that currently use Seventh Edition cards will begin using Eighth Edition cards at the same time. This includes draft queues, leagues, and Limited events in the Premier Events room.

Then, on September 1, 2003, the Eighth Edition set will rotate into Standard format in both physical Magic events and Magic Online events. As a reminder, this doesn't mean you won't be able to use your Seventh Edition cards in Magic Online anymore. The Extended Constructed format will allow them in sanctioned play, along with many casual formats (Open, Tribal Wars, and Prismatic). Also, keep in mind that older cards that are reprinted in Standard-legal sets are allowed in Standard. For example, your Seventh Edition Birds of Paradise that you spent so much time tracking down is still legal (reprinted in the Eighth Edition set).

At the same time we say good-bye to the Seventh Edition set, the new Eighth Edition core set will become available for purchase. For those of you wondering what the development team has been working on, now you know. Within one month of the online Scourge release, the new core set will be available as digital objects. Ah, I hear the testing crew tapping cards as we speak.

So, on July 28 it's out with the old, in with the new. Come midnight that day, it's all about the eight.

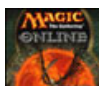

To find a Standard-legal card from an older set on the Deck Editor screen, you need to have either Extended or Open selected from the Sets dropdown list. (The Sets list filters your cards based on set, not on card legality.) You also need to have the Show all versions check box selected.
