New Edition, New Combos

Magic Arcana
 Thursday, July 28, 2005

Ninth Edition reprints some old-school Magic favorites, allowing these old timers to shine in a new context. What are some these reprinted faves that have a fresh outlook on life?

Lords in Multiples

Goblin King is a goblin, so he (and his buddies Elvish Champion and Lord of the Undead) are fun in a Soul Foundry.

Blinky's Back

Blinking Spirit was born to combo with Kamigawa block's spiritcraft mechanics. For that matter, Blinking Spirit was born to combo with "combat damage on the stack"! (Blinky was last printed in Fifth Edition.)

Oath of Bluids

Polymorph has spent a long time out of Standard, showing up the last time in 1999's Sixth Edition. Note that there are some interesting new combos with this card, since there were no indestructible creatures back in 1999...

Land, Ho!

Ley Druid and Overgrowth were printed together, as were the Urzatron (Urza's Mine, Urza's Power Plant and Urza's Tower), Quicksand and Weathered Wayfarer, all of which play well as new setmates. (Just beware of Annex.)

Other New Friendships

Hell's Caretaker will become fast friends with Solemn Simulacrum. Form of the Dragon has been seen on its cell phone with a certain recent Epic spell on the other end. Slate of Ancestry and Verdant Force met in a coffee shop recently and are already pen-pals. And Storage Matrix and Icy Manipulator have been planning mischief since the spoiler went up!
